CHICKEN THIEF GOES TO PEN

One of Trio Caught on Baltimore Street Several Weeks ago Gets Penitentiary Sentence. Second Pleads Guilty.

Warren Anderson, who was arrested several weeks ago with two other youths, charged with chicken stealing, pleaded guilty and was sentenced in Adams County Court to undergo a sentence in the Eastern penitentiary. Under the recent indeterminate sentence act he can serve not less than nine months nor more than three years.

Robert Webber, another member of the trio, also pleaded guilty but the Court suspended sentence and put the lad under probation for one year. Thomas McAdams, the third member, refused to plead guilty, claiming that he is innocent. He will be tried at November term of Court.

It will be remembered that the young men were found in the alley in the rear of the Presbyterian church stealing chickens and that later they were caught on the porch at the rear of the home of S. D. Reck on Baltimore street. It is alleged they were attempting to carry off a box of velvet when discovered. Charles H. Wilson arrested them. They were given a hearing before Squire Hill who held them for Court.

IMPROVEMENTS

The recent successful season is responsible for numerous improvements that will be completed before the opening of the next season at Pen Mar. Allen Gimmel, who already owns several cottages, has begun the erection of another near the Edgewood hotel. The proprietor of the latter, George Lutz, has purchased ground and started work on a 14-room cottage in which he hopes to be able to care for the overflow from the Edgewood. It is rumored the Western Maryland railroad will erect a $15,000 station and double the size of the dancing pavilion.

HELD UP AT MIDWAY

Edward Hertz, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hertz, of Midway, stayed on a little late last Saturday night and on the way home, when nearly opposite St. Vincent's Church some time after midnight, he was stopped by a stranger. A struggle ensued and young Hertz succeeded in freeing himself and escaped to his home without being injured in any manner. The man who accosted him was probably intoxicated.

IMPROVEMENTS

York Springs reports a marked improvement in that town through the laying of concrete crossings. Huntington township has begun putting concrete bridges over some of the small streams, which give general satisfaction.

BIG LOAD

On Tuesday Edward Kimpke, of Buchanan Valley, driving the team of James Kimpke, took 10858 pounds of bark to the Dutta tannery. This is over five tons and comes pretty close to being a record breaker.

"OUR NEW MINISTER"

Obediah Blorton is one of the meanest men you ever saw. Obediah is one of the Hardscrabble folks, the community shown up so humorously in Denman Thompson and George W. Ryer's comedy, "Our New Minister." In contrast to Obediah the play presents in Court Hoten, a grand old citizen of Hardscrabble who is all wool and a yard wide. Of course in the comedy there are lots of other Hardscrabble of interest. They'll all be here soon. They are coming with a brand new scenic equipment. Joseph Conyers is still among 'em. Joseph, you remember, plays the country constable.

AUTOISTS SPEND NIGHT HERE

New York to Atlanta Automobile Tour Makes Gettysburg Place for All Night Stay. Cars in Square. Leave for South.

Forty eight cars in the great automobile run from New York to Atlanta with their 152 occupants arrived in town between two and four o'clock on Tuesday afternoon to spend the night here. Their arrival caused much interest in town and the autoists and their cars were seen by many during their stay here. The start at seven o'clock this morning proved to be the most interesting feature so far as Gettysburg was concerned and many town people were on hand to see the cars get away.

This far not a single mishap worth speaking of had marred the trip. The cars all came in in good condition and the tourists were clearly having a good time. Shortly after their arrival here trips were made over the battlefield by many of the autoists, the remainder using the time to fill their oil and gasoline tanks and to go over the various parts of their machines. J. Warren Gilbert and Harry Gilbert conducted over the field those who wanted to take the trip.

The autoists spent the night at the Eagle Hotel and had a merry time. An open air concert on the front porch was enjoyed by the participants and those who happened to be in that part of town.

The machines were "parked" in the Square for the night and were under police protection. This was done so that all the cars could be kept together. The contestants are not allowed to take their machines away from the remainder and all are closely watched.

"Ty" Cobb aroused the amount of interest that might be expected while Mrs. John Newton Cunco, a Glidden tour driver was also the subject for much comment. She drove one of the press cars.

The contestants got out in rapid order this morning and started for Staunton, Virginia, at a fast clip. They went to Hagerstown and from there South.

The run is for three purposes, to lay out a national highway from North to South, to advertise the New York Herald and Atlanta Journal, and to test the cars and the ability of the drivers.

BALL OF FIRE NEAR PEN MAR

Residents of the Mountain District Terrified by Strange Appearance and Alarming Noise. May Have been Meteor.

A. R. McCune whose home is near the Blue Mountain house, brings down from the mountain a weird tale of a midnight visitor from the skies that frightened himself and neighbors last Thursday about midnight. Its character has not been definitely determined.

Mr. McCune says he was awakened out of sleep by a terrible noise, as a great quantity of dynamite exploding.

The stars were shining at the time, but persons who happened to be on the mountain at the time say they saw what resembled a bolt of lightning flash through the sky and strike some where in the vicinity of Pen Mar.

It looked, witnesses say, as though it started about five miles to the West of Pen Mar and came in a straight line towards them, a ball of fire, such as one sometimes sees during electrical storms.

The most plausible explanation is that it was a meteorite, glowing with white heat incident to the friction between it and the ether through which it passed on its way to earth.

The concussion which awoke Mr. McCune and his neighbors was probably caused by the meteorite striking the earth.

No one has yet found the place where it buried itself in the earth.

GEN. O. O. HOWARD DIES SUDDENLY
Last of Union's Civil War Commanders Passes Away.
HAD LONG MILITARY RECORD

Served Throughout the Civil War and Saw Action at Antietam, Gettysburg and Chattanooga—Retired in 1894.

Burlington, Vt., Oct. 27.—Major General Oliver Otis Howard, U. S. A., retired, died suddenly at his home in this city of angina pectoris. He was the last of the Union commanders of the Civil War.

Major General Howard was born in Maine in 1830. He graduated from Bowdoin college at the age of twenty and received an appointment at the military academy at West Point. Upon graduating in 1854 he was made a second lieutenant.

GENERAL O. O. HOWARD.
 and Lieutenant in the ordnance department. During the next year he accepted the position as professor of mathematics at West Point, with the rank of first lieutenant.

When the Civil War broke out General Howard resigned from the chair of mathematics, saying, when leave was refused him at the academy: "My country needs me." He went to the war as colonel of the Third Maine volunteers. At the first battle of Bull Run he commanded a brigade and was made a brigadier general soon after. He lost an arm at the battle of Fair Oaks on June 1, 1862, but he resumed his command the next month and saw action at Antietam, Gettysburg and Chattanooga. For his services during Sherman's march to the sea he was made a brigadier general in the regular army. It was at this time that Sherman wrote to Grant concerning Howard: "I find him a polished and Christian gentleman, exhibiting the highest and most chivalrous traits of character."

At the close of the war he was appointed head of the Freedmen's Bureau and held this position for nine years. In 1877 General Howard engaged in Indian fighting, commanding an expedition against the Nez Perces. He afterward commanded the department of the Platte at Omaha, the department of the Pacific and finally came to Governor's Island as commander of the department of the east. In 1894 he was retired with the rank of major general, and in 1908 the senate passed a bill placing General Howard on the retired list as a lieutenant general.

Hinter thereupon had him arrested on the charge of using profane language, and at the hearing he was found guilty and fined.

The Weather.
 Forecast for this section: Fair today and tomorrow; slightly cooler; moderate southerly to west winds.

A Pennsylvania farmer we heard of the other day very effectively solved the problem of loosening up the clay hardpan soil of a long cropped field by sowing the field in the spring with seed of the long horn turnip and plowing the whole crop under in August. He found that the long taproots of the turnip had penetrated the hard soil to a foot or more, and when the roots decayed the field was very effectively perforated, making possible a ready circulation of air and moisture. Alfalfa performs a similar service in loosening the soil, but the turnips get action in a much shorter time.

MRS. ASTOR SEEKS DIVORCE
 Allegations of Millionaire's Wife Are Shrouded by Mystery.
 New York, Oct. 27.—It was learned that on Oct. 18, the day after Mrs. John J. Astor arrived here from Europe, Supreme Court Justice Mills appointed Charles H. Young referee to take testimony in a suit brought by Mrs. Astor for a separation from Colonel John Jacob Astor.
 While it is said that the referee has held several hearings in the case, the allegations in the complaint could not be learned.
 Up to the present time there had been no intimation that the domestic life of Colonel and Mrs. Astor were not happy. They were married Feb. 1, 1891. Mrs. Astor was Alva L. Willing, daughter of Edward Shippen Willing, a banker of Philadelphia. They have two children.

Heinze, who was convicted last June of advising a witness in the United Copper company investigation to evade the service of a grand jury subpoena, was sentenced by Judge Ray in the United States circuit court to pay a fine of $250 and be imprisoned ten days in the New York city prison. Judge Ray declined to grant a stay.

U. S. SUES THE READING FOR 50 CENTS
 Filing of Suit Costs More Than the Reparation Demanded.
 Washington, Oct. 27.—"Uncle Sam" does not overlook the pennies, although it may cost him dollars to collect them. A complaint was filed with the interstate commerce commission involving reparation to the United States in the sum of 50 cents.

The typewriting of the complaint cost the government more than the amount of the reparation demanded. The complaint was that of the United States of America against the Philadelphia & Reading Railway company and the New England Navigation company, on account of an alleged overcharge of passenger fare from Philadelphia to Newport, R. I., and return. The regular fare for the round trip, according to the published tariffs, is $3.50. The fare collected was $3.55. The government, through W. P. Potter, acting secretary of the navy, demands a refund of 50 cents, and the chances are that it will get it.

A sick animal on the farm should be isolated at once. This not only makes it possible to give the special care needed, but will lessen the likelihood of a spread of the trouble provided it should prove contagious.

 The children were all on the second floor of the wing of the building and they were caught by the fire in a manner that made their rescue impossible. In latitudes where the winters are forbidding and tend to keep folks closely housed during the winter months it is a sensible thing to be out of doors during the fall and early winter as much as possible in order to store up vitality and energy to bear the more rigorous outdoor air of the colder months. Every chance that offers should be improved to breathe this fine, crisp, life giving air that is so characteristic these October and November days.

ROMANCE OF A LEG.
 By S. HUNTER HALSEY.
 [Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]
 Love cannot be expressed by language. It is something to be felt, but not spoken. The old, the middle aged, the young may experience it. It is not confined to any class. It is serious, pathetic, yet there are times when it is ridiculous.
 When Mary Ann, who had served us faithfully for twenty years, announced that she was about to be married to Peter, the hired farm hand, we were astonished. Never had we seen the couple spooning or mouling. On the contrary, we had observed what we considered evidence of animosity. They were continually making complaints of each other. But we knew Mary Ann was a good woman, and we had little interest in Peter, for he was with us only for the harvest season.
 "How long, Mary Ann," we asked, "have you and Peter been engaged?"
 "Since yesterday at sunset."
 "And had you thought much about marrying before that?"
 "I had and I hadn't," replied Mary Ann. "That was because I didn't know what Peter was a-goin' to do. But a week ago when I gave him a piece of pie I had made and he said, 'Mary Ann, have you the receipt for it, so that if you should leave the farm you could make it without the cookbook?' I knew there was meaning in the observation. And when I said, 'Never fear, I have the receipt firm in my head,' I saw by the look in his eye it wouldn't be long before he'd ask me."
 One would suppose that in such a genuine case the course of true love would run smooth, but it didn't. Peter walked with a halting gait. Being a woman, I am blessed with woman's traits, including animosity. "Mary Ann," I said to her one day, "what makes Peter walk so queerly?"
 "I'm sure I don't know," was the reply.
 "Oh," I added. "I supposed you would know, of course."
 From that time I noticed there was something wrong between the lovers. I asked Mary Ann about it. "It's the leg," she said. "I taxed him. He said there was something on his mind about it. I begged him to confess, but he wouldn't and he wouldn't, till at last I lost patience with him."
 "You shouldn't have done that," I replied. "We women don't need to lose our patience with men. We have only to keep at them and they are sure to come our way at last. They are not as enduring as we. But it would not be prudent for you to marry Peter with a secret between you and him. It may be there is a story connected with his limp. He may have been doing something unlawful and got caught in a trap."
 "I've thought that myself," said Mary Ann, a pained expression crossing her face.
 After this the relations between Peter and Mary Ann went from bad to worse. I said nothing more to her, for I knew that when a woman makes up her mind to learn a secret she'll know it in time. I noticed a hounded look on Peter's face, but I did not realize the depth of his tribulation. If there was nothing disgraceful connected with his halting walk, why should he not tell? If there was, Mary Ann would best be rid of him.

One morning I was standing on the porch looking down toward the railroad which runs past the other end of the apple orchard. The express was due in a few minutes, and I always liked to see it go by. There is something about a passing train to wake us country people from our accustomed lethargy. Presently I heard a distant whistle and a moment later saw Peter walking briskly as his halt would permit toward the track. He climbed the fence dividing it from the farm, dragging his stiff leg over after him and stood between the rails. At that moment the train shot out of the wood. I heard a succession of sharp whistles and saw Peter, instead of getting out of the train's way, lie down on the ties. I shrieked and covered my eyes with my hands, but before shutting out my vision caught a glimpse of Mary Ann wildly running toward the would be suicide.
 I heard the train stop, a hissing of steam and a confusion of voices. One of the farm hands came along, and when I asked him if Peter had been killed he told me that he would probably die, since he had lost a leg. He had tried to get off the track at the last moment and had removed all of his body except one leg, which had been crushed under the wheels.
 "Oh, that leg!" I groaned. "I've been sure it would ruin Mary Ann's happiness. I hope he's lost the one that has been the cause of the trouble."
 I saw an opening in a knot of people crowding around something beside the train, and two men emerged carrying another on a stretcher. Mary Ann walking beside them wringing her hands. They were bringing Peter to the house. When they came to where I was standing and Mary Ann saw me she halted.
 "It's the leg! I knew there was bad luck in it. Oh, why couldn't I leave it alone!"
 Later the doctor came out of the house to the porch where I was comforting Mary Ann as best I could.
 "Tell us quick!" I cried. "Will he live?"
 "He's lost a leg," he replied, "but it's a wooden one, and he only suffers from the shock."
 Mary Ann and I looked at each other. Then Mary Ann flew into the house to make her lover happy.

It is fair to assume that work horses enjoy a frequent and refreshing drink of cool water just as much as workmen do. If they were remembered in this way there would be fewer of them giving out on hot days during harvest.
 As a rule, the most beautiful colored autumn leaves are noticed those falls when heavy freezes hold off till late, the varied colors which the leaves of different trees take on being in way of a chemical change, the result of a natural ripening process.

Sore Throat Don'ts.
 When the children have sore throat, don't blister their necks with lamp oil. Don't torture them with a foul smelling piece of old meat, wrapped about the neck. Don't imagine there is medical virtue in an old sock or piece of red flannel. Don't believe in antiquated superstitions.
 A sore throat is a serious matter and is not to be healed by such make-believe remedies. The use of such methods is simply putting the patient to needless torture. Use a little sore throat wisdom and give them TONSILINE and the throat will heal quickly.

A WARNING
 Since its introduction into the United States, the sales of Parisian Sage have been phenomenal. This success has led to many imitations similar in name. Look out for them, they are not the genuine. See that the girl with the Auburn hair is on every package. You can always get the genuine at the People's Drug Store.
 Parisian Sage is the quickest acting and most efficient hair tonic in the world.
 It is made to conform to Dr. Sanger-bond's (of Paris) proven theory that dandruff, falling hair, baldness and scalp itching are caused by germs.
 Parisian Sage kills these dandruff germs and removes all trace of dandruff in two weeks, or money back; it stops falling hair and itching scalp and prevents baldness.
 And remember that baldness is caused by dandruff germs, these little, hard-working, persistent devils that day and night do no harm but dig into the roots of the hair and destroy its vitality.
 Parisian Sage is a daintily perfumed hair dressing, not sticky or greasy, and any woman who desires luxuriant and bewitching hair can get in two weeks by using it. 50 cents a large bottle.

Oranges grown in some portions of Mexico are infested with maggots, the larvae of flies which lay their eggs in the skin of the growing orange and hatch by the time the fruit is ripe and have a fine time in the pulp of the orange until they emerge as fully developed flies. For this reason California, with her immense orange growing interests, has placed an embargo on Mexican oranges as well as nursery stock, so much is a spread of this pest feared. The maggot is white in color and is from a third to half an inch long.

Terrible Red Patches on Face and Arms Made Victim Ashamed to be Seen—Suffered Intensely for Ten Months—Expert Treatment Gave No Relief—Two Sets of the

CUTICURA REMEDIES ENTIRELY CURED HER

"About two years ago I contracted eczema and suffered intensely for about ten months. At times I thought I would scratch myself to pieces. My face and arms were covered with large red patches, so that I was ashamed to go out. I was advised to go to a doctor who was a specialist in skin diseases, but I received very little relief. I tried every known remedy, with the same results. I thought I would never get better until a friend told me to try the Cuticura Remedies. So I tried them as the last resource, and I am very glad that I did, for after four or five applications of Cuticura Ointment I was relieved of my unbearable itching. I used two sets of the Cuticura Remedies (Soap, Ointment and Pills), and I am completely cured. I always recommend Cuticura to any one that is suffering and in every case it seems to cure. Baltimore Excursion

LAST excursion of the season, Saturday, October 30, by P. O. S. of A. of Gettysburg. Leaves Fairfield 6.45; Gettysburg 7.15. Returning leaves Hillen Station 11.30 p. m.

According to figures which have been compiled by the Canadian forestry department, there is in the Dominion a total of 1,500,000 square miles of standing timber, but notwithstanding this enormous reserve there were set out in 1908 under the direction of the department 3,000,000 young trees to take the place of those felled, while a total of 10,000,000 little trees have been set out during the past few years. It would have been well for this country had a like policy been inaugurated when its timber resources were considered inexhaustible.

PRINCE ITO ASSASSINATED

Great Japanese Statesman Shot Dead in Manchuria.

THREE OTHERS ARE INJURED

Korean Fired Deadly Bullets at Railway Station at Harbin and Boasted That He Did It to Avenge His Country.

Harbin, Manchuria, Oct. 27.—Prince Hirobumi Ito, former Japanese president general of Korea, and probably Japan's foremost statesman, was assassinated here by a Korean, who had followed him here for the express purpose of killing him.
The motive of the assassin, who was arrested with two companions, was revenge.
The venerable Japanese diplomat was acknowledging the noisy welcome that had greeted him as he stepped down from the coach that he had occupied in the railroad train. Smiling and bowing, he turned to make his way toward the Russian finance minister, M. Kokosovoff, who was awaiting him on the station platform a few paces distant.
Suddenly a half dozen revolver shots, fired in quick succession, were heard, followed by the cries of those who were standing near the prince, who had either been wounded or imagined themselves to be. At the second report Prince Ito staggered and fell fainting. It was subsequently found that he had received three bullets, two of which entered the abdomen. Prince Ito did not recover consciousness and died twenty minutes later.

PRINCE ITO.

Three Others Wounded.
The fusillade of shots threw the crowd into a panic, and it was some time before it could be determined who, beside the prince, had suffered. When the excitement had somewhat subsided it was found that three other members of the party on the platform had been injured. Prince Ito's private secretary received a bullet, as did Japanese Consul General Kawakan and General Manager Tanaka, of the South Manchurian railway, who had moved closer to the prince as the firing began. It is not thought that these three are mortally wounded.

The perpetrator of the outrage was not hard to locate, as he stood defiantly in the crowd, revolver in hand. He proved to be a Korean and, with two companions of the same nationality, boasted of a conspiracy to take the life of the former resident general of Korea in satisfaction for the alleged tyranny of the prince over the Koreans.
As the police pounced on the three Koreans, the one who did the shooting exclaimed dramatically:
"I came to Harbin for the sole purpose of assassinating Prince Ito, to avenge my country."
None of the three Koreans attempted to escape. The assassin, while claiming to have been inspired by a patriotic motive and to believe that Japanese wrongs to Koreans justified his act, admitted under examination that he had a personal grudge against the Japanese statesman, who, while resident general in Korea, had caused the execution of several of the murderer's friends.

Breaks Pledge; Dismissed From Army.

Washington, Oct. 27.—Found guilty of breaking a pledge taken in 1906 to abstain from the use of intoxicating liquors for five years, First Lieutenant Edward Terry, of the Twenty-second Infantry, has been dismissed from the army. He was also charged with drunkenness on duty.

The designations "nigh" and "off" used in referring to the left and right hand animals of a team came into use because of the fact that the driver of the pioneer ox team used to stand when driving to the left of the left hand animal so he could wield a whip in his right hand, which was nearest the team. The customary position of the driver of a team of horses is on the right instead of the left side of the seat, with the result that the nigh horse is the one farthest from him and the off horse the one nearest.

These should be arranged so that the sheep cannot foul them with their feet. Another point is to keep them from becoming excited or frightened. To this end it is better that one person feed them all the time.

FUGITIVE WHO SLEW HUSBAND RETURNS

Warren Woman Comes Back to Scene of Crime.

Warren, Pa., Oct. 27.—Her nervous system shattered, hair disheveled and clothing disarranged, Mrs. F. O. Anderson, who last Saturday wrote a letter to her son that she had killed her husband and was going to commit suicide, was taken into custody here soon after she had alighted from an eastern train. It is believed her mind is deranged.
Soon after receiving the letter from his mother Saturday the son, Elmer, went to his parents' home, five miles from this city, where he found his father dead, with two knife and three gunshot wounds in the back.
His mother could not be located. A thorough search was made of the Anderson farm and vicinity without success, and it was believed Mrs. Anderson had left for New York with the intention of going to her old home in Sweden.

Except that she had been in a "big town" nothing definite can be learned from the woman as to her whereabouts since Saturday.

34 DROWN AS LINER STRANDS

Steamship Hestia Wrecked by Furious Gale.

ONLY SIX PERSONS SAVED

Score of the Crew Were Seen in a Boat That Was Blown to Sea—Two Lifeboats, Crowded With Seamen, Capsized.

St. John, N. B., Oct. 27.—Thirty-four lives are believed to have been lost through the wrecking of the Donaldson line steamship Hestia on a shoal near Old Proprietor ledge. Only six lives are known to have been saved out of the ship's complement of forty men. They were taken from the stranded vessel by a crew of life savers who put out from the Seal Cove station, on Grand Manan, and fought their way through heavy seas and around ledges until at last they came alongside.

At least twenty of the crew, with Captain Newman among their number, managed to get away from the stricken vessel in a small boat, but the craft was so overcrowded that it was impossible to man the oars and the boat went drifting out to sea before the stiff northwest gale, in danger every moment of being capsized because of her heavy load.

An older boat, into which there was crowded sixteen of the crew, was capsized suddenly because of the breaking of the tackle as it was lowered from the davits, and all hands went into the water. Some of them went down at once, while others clung to the boat, and just as they succeeded in righting it the boat turned over once more. Two seamen were taken into the overcrowded captain's boat, and possibly more, but the darkness prevented those left on the Hestia from seeing clearly.

A third boat was smashed to pieces as it hung on the davits, and there was no way for the six men left to make their escape. They watched the fate of their companions as long as they could, expecting every minute that the steamer would slide off the rocks and founder beneath them.

The Hestia left Glasgow on Oct. 9, bound for this place with a general cargo, after which she was to proceed to Baltimore. Just how the Hestia came to get in upon the rocks has not been learned yet, but was probably due to the navigating officer losing his bearings and mistaking some of the lights off the westward for those of further up on the bay toward this port.

The early watch had just gone on duty and the steamer was proceeding at a fair rate of speed, when breakers were seen right under her bows, but before the engines could be reversed she plunged her bows into a solid mass of rocks that are barely covered at high water. Instantly the heavy seas began breaking over the craft, and water poured into the holds through great rents in her hull, extinguishing the fires under the boilers.

TWO FIREMEN NAMED AS CO-RESPONDENTS

Suit For Divorce Follows Fire at Plaintiff's Home.

White Plains, N. Y., Oct. 27.—Two members of the Portchester volunteer fire department, who were called to put out a blaze in a house at 50 Irving avenue, are named as co-respondents in an action for absolute divorce that has been brought by John O'Neill against Ellen O'Neill. At the trial a cousin of the plaintiff told how, on the night of June 22, 1908, after the furniture had been carried out of the house and the blaze extinguished the gallant firemen were found in a bedroom with Mrs. O'Neill. Her husband was not at home, so the witness hurried out and notified the police. Patrolman Frank Atello corroborated the witness. He said that when he went upstairs the two firemen were still in the room, and one of them was trying to hold the door shut.

Presbyterians Elect Moderator.

York, Pa., Oct. 27.—Rev. Dr. Calvin C. Hays, of Johnstown, was elected moderator of the Pennsylvania Presbyterian synod, which convened in this city for its twenty-eighth annual session. He succeeds Rev. Dr. John B. Kendall, president of Lincoln university. The new moderator has been pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Johnstown, for twenty years. He is forty-eight years old.

Boy's Dog Guards His Grave.

Reading, Pa., Oct. 27.—Stanley Green, thirteen years old, died here several days ago and was buried at a local cemetery. His brown dog lay upon his bed during his illness, and under his coffin before he was buried. A day after the funeral the animal disappeared and was found crouching upon his former master's grave in a half famished condition.

Coal is 'Money— Save It!

Every time you put coal on the fire, just remember that you are shoveling money. Don't waste it! If you have one of those old-fashioned hot-air coal eaters, you can save half of your usual coal bills, and at the same time have more heat, distributed evenly from first floor to attic, at all hours, no matter how cold the weather.

MODEL Heating System

Saves coal because it burns it thoroughly and circulates every bit of the heat through the house. Saves your time, because it almost runs itself. Makes very few ashes, and those few are fine and white—no clinkers or black coals. The safest, ablest, most economical heating system, as proved in thousands of homes. Steam or hot water.

LEDOM Range

Makes a big fire with a little coal. Gets all the heat out of coal, leaving only fine white ashes. No need to sift ashes if you have a Ledom. Fire always fine for broiling, keeps the water tank hot, and has a big oven that keeps hot all through. The best range that can be made.

NATURE'S HAIR RESTORER

WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY

One Great Reason Why
This Great Hair Beautifier and Color Restorer,
Produces Such Remarkable Results

Sulphur is a Natural Element of the Hair.

When there is not a sufficient amount of sulphur in the hair, it loses its life, color and strength, turns gray, and falls out. There are many forms of sulphur, but only one kind that is suitable for treatment of the hair and scalp; and that is the kind used in preparing WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY.

We Have the Secret, and We Give You the Benefit
Of It At An Exceedingly Low Price

BALDNESS
CURED

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin, until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly, until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is now fairly covered with hair, and it keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

THE STRAIGHT HOMER ON TOP.

The Homer leads for squabs because it's the most prolific breeder at lowest cost of the quality of squab the market demands. Without it, squab business, nil.

The smart Alecks who dropped the Homer for the Runt, with its big one and one-half pound squab, when they got only one or two pairs per year at greater expense, while the straight Homers bred from seven to eight pairs of fine youngsters, quickly returned to their first love dove.

Those who crossed Homers and Runts saw no silver lining to their dark cloud when they found undesirable black and blue peepers in the nest.

Those who bit at Dragoons soon learned they were using five weeks' feed to mature a Dragon squab, while the straight Homer breeder had already accrued a week's interest on the sale of his cheaper fed squealers.

Those who got stuck on the feather-legged Duchess soon found little

STRAIGHT HOMER—FLYING RECORD, 500 MILES IN TEN HOURS.

Dukes and Duchesses with fuzzy stockings weren't in style and dealers didn't want half Homers with paint brush trillies.

The greatest joke was the Mondaine gold brick worked on a multitude of erudite Yankees by Johnny Bull breeders at $20 per pair. When those calico colored culls reached this side the wrath of the buyer almost equaled the amount of express.

What of the Carreaux and Kings? These, with others, are very good, but as a prolific breeder and fine feeder of what's the go the straight Homer is the whole show.

HOW TO PREPARE SQUABS FOR MARKET.

Fat, plump squabs picked dry while warm seldom tear if handled with care.

Have water handy to moisten fingers. Hang large ring from ceiling; have three nooses hanging from it; slip these over legs, wings and tail of bird so it can't move. Take its head in left hand, insert knife and cut through back of head into brain.

Hang weight by hooked wire to back and when bird grasp loosened wings in left hand and with moistened thumb and forefinger of right hand pluck SQUABS FOUR WEEKS OLD—MARKET SIZE. neck, leaving an inch back of head, and in succession pick breast, under-body and legs.

Now draw wings front and pick back, duff and tail.

Put wings together and pull large quills of both wings at once, finish each wing separately and then complete the job by drawing all pinfeathers with the edge of a knife.

Wash mouth and feet, drop bird into cold water for a few minutes to plump up and lose animal heat, then drain perfectly and pack in alternate layers of ice if market is distant and weather is warm. Twelve squabs an hour is expert time.

DON'TS.

Don't let the ducks stir up mud in the run. On your neighbor's wash day there will be fun.

Don't pose in the limelight if your crowers have mites. Don't give sage advice if your turkeys have lice.

Don't change breeds till you have mastered the old or it has mastered you. The latter doesn't flatter.

Rye Meal For Dairy Cows.

The Pennsylvania experiment station has discovered that rye meal as a part of a properly balanced ration for dairy cows is as efficient in milk and butter production as an equal weight of corn meal.

Good management on the farm as well as in the home consists as much in knowing what to let go as in what to do—in other words, in the power of discrimination.

Farm and Garden

MICE PRODUCE PLAGUES.

How to Stop Their Ravages of Crops and Orchards.

The annual damage caused by field mice to crops, nurseries and orchards in the United States has been estimated by the agricultural department at over $3,000,000. There are fifty species of mice.

With few exceptions the short tailed field mice are readily distinguishable from other mice by their stout, chunky bodies, short legs, short, round tails, blunt muzzles, short ears and rather small eyes. The species shown in the cut are dark brownish or grayish brown in color and considerably larger and heavier than the common house mouse.

They live almost everywhere in damp meadows, where their presence may be detected among the grass and weeds by small, well defined, crooked trails, along which at intervals are little heaps of fresh grass or other herbage. In alfalfa or clover fields their numerous burrows are usually in colonies. As a rule, they appear first along ditches or about damp areas, where dead plants are almost certain evidence of their work.

In the past many methods of destroying field mice have been tried, yet the records describe no instance in which well established plagues have been successfully suppressed. Failing to recognize the early stage of the plague, the people in stricken districts did not usually adopt vigorous measures until after the fields were swarming with mice. The failure, then, has been due partly to lack of co-operation and partly to lack of knowledge of quick, cheap and effective measures. Without witnessing such a plague one can hardly form a conception of the almost incredible numbers of mice and of the magnitude of the task of destroying them.

Among methods of little value which have been tried in other countries to rid the land of these scourges are rolling the land with heavy cylinders, tramping it by cavalry or by droves of sheep, liberating large numbers of cats and injecting water, steam or suffocating gases into the mouse burrows. Many measures practicable on a small scale or of value in the early stages are entirely inadequate for the suppression of well established plagues, particularly where farms are as large as in the United States. Among such methods are digging trenches or pits falls wider at the bottom than at the top, into which the mice fall; killing by means of traps, clubs or dogs, burning off the herbage in infested areas and flooding the fields. The elimination of these leaves as methods generally applicable for suppressing plagues only two, the employment of disease and poisoning.

The poultry raiser needs grit, and so do his hens.
